SHARING WINEMAKERS' BEST KEPT SECRETS

The team at Catalina Club have filled this season's menu with new varietals from Australia and across the world.

Relatively new to the white wine scene in Australia is Fiano – an ancient grape originating from southern Italy. With a rich history, this varietal brings taut and mineral textures to the palate, and luckily grows well in the South Australian climate and soils. Traditionally at home in volcanic, rugged earth, the Fiano is typically elegant, layered and fresh.

This season, we've invited Australian winemakers Bremerton to share their special release Fiano from 2024, handcrafted by Bremerton winemaker Rebecca Willson in the agricultural region of Langhorne Creek. In typical Italian style, Willson believes this wine should be enjoyed with traditional Italian cuisine. The perfect reason to tempt you to sample this unique varietal with our new season pastas.

Another newcomer to Catalina hails directly from the fertile wine region of Mendoza, Argentina. The Argento 'Estate Bottled'

Prices may fluctuate with the family-owned and artisan wineries throughout the season.

Organic Malbec is a 2022 vintage, celebrating Argentinian high-altitude viticulture at its finest.

This sustainable, organic release considers itself a 'rich winter red', with succulent red and brambly black fruit on the palate, and heady notes of plum, pepper and spice on the nose. The mid-bodied wine is a perfect pairing alongside our head chef's signature meat platter, and an ideal treat on a cool autumn night.

For celebrations, the full-bodied Piper Heidsieck cannot be missed. This structured, award-winning champagne is made traditionally in France, by one of the great Champagne houses of the region.

It delivers a nose of fresh hazelnut before unleashing a crunchy palate of juicy pear and golden grape. We highly recommend indulging in a seafood platter, including delicacies from the Clyde River and South Coast, to uplift this hallmark champagne.
